◆ Stadhuy Museum

The Stadhuy was built between 1641 and 1660 on the ruins of a fort which belongs to the Portuguese. It is believed that the Stadhuy is the oldest Dutch building in the East. This massive red building displays all the common features of the Dutch colonial architecture which includes substantial solid doors and louvered windows. Since its completion to 1980, the Stadhuy was used as the administrative center of successive governments for a period of 300 years. It was in 1982 when the Stadhuy was converted into a history museum which exhibits Malacca's history starting from the great Malay Sultanate and the Portuguese, Dutch and British colonization till the present day.

Beside the Stadhuy is also another fine example of the Dutch architecture which is the Christ Church that was built in 1753. Attractions nearby are aplenty. Just a short walking distance towards the opposite of the Stadhuy is the renowned Jonker Street where you can try famous Malaccan delicacies such as the chicken rice ball, nyonya laksa, cendol and so on. There are also many souvenirs which you can buy at the Jonker Street. Before you can get to Jonker Street from the Stadhuy, you will cross a river. There is a Malacca River Cruise just nearby if you wish to see more of this famous area. There are also museums in the area such as the Cheng Ho Culture Museum and the Malaysian Youth Museum (Muzium Belia Melaka).

Cost: 22 RM (Tourist with passport).

◆ Kapal Samudera dan Museum Samudera

Muzium Samudera merupakan replika kapal Flor de La Mar yang dibina pada awal tahun 1990 dan telah dirasmikan oleh Perdana Menteri Malaysia, Tun Dr. Mahathir Mohamad pada 13 Jun 1994. Muzium Samudera terletak di Jalan Quayside berhampiran muara Sungai Melaka. Dibina berdasarkan replika Kapal Portugis berukuran 34 meter tinggi, 36 meter panjang dan 8 meter lebar. Fokus utama muzium ini ialah sejarah kelautan Melaka dan zaman kegemilangan Melaka sebagai Emporium Timur. Ia juga menyingkap pergolakan politik maritim di Melaka yang membuktikan bahawa hilangnya kuasa politik maka hilanglah segalanya. Pameran di muzium ini memaparkan perkembangan perdagangan dari zaman kesultanan Melayu Melaka hingga ke zaman Kolonial Portugis, Belanda, Inggeris dan era penaklukan Jepun di Tanah Melayu. Turut dipamerkan ialah lukisan, peta lama, model kapal dan artifak berkaitan maritim dan perdagangan di Melaka.

Cost : 10 Rm.

◆ Replika Istana Melaka

The Malacca Sultanate Palace is actually a replica of the structure which was built by the already extinct sultanate of Malacca. The sultanate of Malacca was the ruler of the city before the arrival of the Portuguese in the 1500s. The plan of the palace was based on the Malay Annals' account of Sultan Mansur Shah's palace. Sultan Mansur Shah was the nobleman who ruled Malacca from 1456 to 1477. The Malacca Sultanate Palace is one of its kind in Malaysia as it offers a rare glimpse of the ancient Malay kingdom which once flourished in Malacca.

Cost : 10 Rm.

◆ St. Paul's Church

Making your way to the St Paul's Church on the St Paul's Hill may take much longer than you have anticipated. You will be easily distracted by the various museums along the way up to the church. As you proceed with your journey up the hill, you will pass by the Architecture Museum Malacca, Islamic Museum of Malacca and the Stamp museum Malacca. Beyond these museums, you will come to the historical monument of Malacca which is the Porte De Santiago or more commonly known as A Famosa among the locals. The A Famosa is a fortress which was used in the war last time and has many historical values.

Cost : Free of Charge.

◆ River Cruise

Melaka River cuts across the city of the same name on its way to the Straits of Melaka. Just a few decades ago it was a drab, grey waterway lined with crumbling houses on stilts, but the river has since transformed into a top tourist attraction, with both Malaysians and international visitors coming to soak in its history and marvel at the diverse architecture. Clearer water and an effort to preserve the historic buildings and bridges along the river have helped Melaka become a tourist destination; even its newest buildings are adorned with colorful murals depicting the city's rich culture and its history as a former Portuguese, Dutch and British colony. On a boat trip along the river you'll pass ancient churches and temples, beautiful bridges, old warehouses and whole villages, gaining a sense of how the area has changed over the years.

❖ Jonker Walk

It is a commonly acknowledged fact that Malacca's Jonker Walk Night Market is the best in the country. Well organised with a wide array of stalls, polite and friendly hawkers, ubiquitous bargains as well as live music coursing throughout the area, Jonker Walk comes to life in full colour with a lively street party-like atmosphere. As the night market takes place every Friday and Saturday night, the handful of bars along this avenue does a roaring business with tables and chairs spilling out onto the five-foot walkways. Visitors are spoiled for choice when it comes to delicious food; from piping hot grilled meat on skewers to Chinese delicacies like bak chang (sticky rice stuffed with meat and wrapped in bamboo leaves), dim sum, and popiah (fresh spring roll), visitors can easily browse through the many stalls and live performances in Jonker Walk Night Market.
